EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

February was a very busy month for the Executive Council. Our main event this month was Day at the Capitol, put on by Government Relations Officer, Morgan Brummund. At the event, students were able to speak with various Idaho legislators and showcase all the amazing programs that Boise State has to offer. ASBSU is also exploring structural changes. Ethics Officer, Reegan Jacobson, proposed constitutional changes that will restructure ASBSU, as a whole. In an Executive Council meeting on February 20th, Jacobson called a Constitutional Convention. You can find information about the Constitutional Convention on the ASBSU website.

Lastly, there was one bill created by the Executive Council and there were two resolutions passed. The bill that passed was the Graduation Regalia Bill, which allocates funds to purchase graduation cords for all qualifying graduation members of ASBSU. The two resolutions passed are the Preservation of Meal-Equivalency Resolution and the Food Service Inspection Proactive Transparency Resolution. These resolutions will be discussed further in the Assembly portion of the newsletter. Remember to vote in ASBSU Elections on March 17th-18th!

INCLUSIVE EXCELLENCE

STUDENT COUNCIL

For February, progress has been made! We have finalized a space for the Resiliency Room that will be implemented by the upcoming 2020-2021 school year! This will be a multi-faith space for our front line students and community to share in solidarity! We are also appreciative of everyone who came out to our GALA event (Gathering All Leaders & Activists.) We hope to continue building love and trust within each other! Meeting with deans are continuing and making progress in supporting their inclusive efforts!

STUDENT ASSEMBLY
February was a very productive month for the Assembly. Individuals and committees worked hard, in order to create resolutions that will benefit students. The first resolution created was the Preservation of Meal-Equivalency Resolution, which explains the official opinion of ASBSU, regarding the meal plan changes proposed last month. The discussion surrounding this was very positive and supportive of the resolution. The second resolution created was the Food Inspection Proactive Transparency Resolution, which requires Dining Services to notify students of health inspection results. This resolution also calls upon Dining Services to address the discrepancies between information ASBSU members received and Aramark’s contractual obligations. This conversation was also well-supported by the student representatives on Assembly. Next month, the assembly will continue to work in their committees and make impactful progress.
